INTRODUCTION

On the three rolls of this microfilm publication, A3386, are reproduced over 16,000 manifests of alien and citizen arrivals at Babb, Montana, June 3, 1928–October 31, 1956. The records are arranged in three series: (1) “Temporary Admission” Manifests; (2) “Permanent Admission” Manifests; and (3) Returning U.S. Citizen Manifests. These records are part of the Records of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, Record Group (RG) 85.

BACKGROUND

Early records relating to immigration originated in regional customhouses. The U.S. Customs Service conducted its business by designating collection districts. Each district had a headquarters port with a customhouse and a collector of customs, the chief officer of the district. An act of March 2, 1819 (3 Stat. 489) required the captain or master of a vessel arriving at a port in the United States or any of its territories from a foreign country to submit a list of passengers to the collector of customs. The act also required that the collector submit a quarterly report or abstract, consisting of copies of these passenger lists, to the Secretary of State, who was required to submit such information at each session of Congress. After 1874, collectors forwarded only statistical reports to the Treasury Department. The lists themselves were retained by the collector of customs. Customs records were maintained primarily for statistical purposes.

On August 3, 1882, Congress passed the first Federal law regulating immigration (22 Stat. 214–215); the Secretary of the Treasury had general supervision over it between 1882 and 1891. The Office of Superintendent of Immigration in the Department of the Treasury was established under an act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1085), and was later designated a bureau in 1895 with responsibility for administering the alien contract-labor laws. In 1900 administration of the Chinese exclusion laws was added. Initially the Bureau retained the same administrative structure of ports of entry that the Customs Service had used. By the turn of the century, it began to designate its own immigration districts, the numbers and boundaries of which changed over the years. In 1903 the Bureau became part of the Department of Commerce and Labor; its name was changed to the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization when functions relating to naturalization were added in 1906. In 1933 the functions were transferred to the Department of Labor and became the responsibility of the newly formed Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS). Under President Roosevelt’s Reorganization Plan V of 1940, the INS was moved to the Department of Justice.

Keeping statistics on alien arrivals at U.S. land borders was not required by early immigration acts. Thus, the statistical treatment of Canadian and Mexican border immigrants at times has differed from that of other immigrants. When records of arrivals began to be kept at the Canadian border in 1895 and at the Mexican border, ca. 1906, immigration authorities found it impractical to collect arrival information on lists as they did for ship passengers. Therefore, separate cards or "card manifests" for each person were used instead. These cards contained the same information as that collected on traditional ship passenger arrival lists, such as full name, age, sex, marital status, occupation, point of arrival in the United States, and final destination.

IMMIGRATION STATISTICS AND DEFINITIONS

Beginning in 1895, immigrants who arrived at Canadian seaports with the declared intention of proceeding to the United States by land were recorded and included in immigration statistics. (Some aliens may have chosen this route because of possibly lower fares from Europe to Canada.) All other alien arrivals at U.S. northern and southern land borders were reported beginning in 1906; and reporting was fully established in 1908 under authority of an act of February 20, 1907 (34 Stat. 898). "All other aliens" included Canadians, all aliens arriving at the Mexican border, and any alien resident or nonresident of Canada who had not, at a Canadian seaport, previously declared their intent to proceed to the United States.

Not all aliens entering via the Canadian and Mexican borders were necessarily counted for inclusion in the immigration statistics. Before about 1930, no count was made of residents of Canada, Newfoundland, or Mexico who had lived in those countries for a year or more if they planned to enter the United States for less than six months. However, from about 1930 to 1945, the following classes of aliens entering via the land borders were included in immigration statistics:

- (1) Those who had not been in the U.S. within six months, who came to stay more than six months
- (2) Those for whom straight head tax was a prerequisite to admission, or for whom head tax was specially deposited and subsequently converted to a straight head tax account¹
- (3) Those required by law or regulation to present an immigration visa or reentry permit, and those who surrendered either, regardless of whether they were required by law or regulation to do so
- (4) Those announcing an intention to depart from a seaport in the United States for Hawaii or other insular possession of the U.S. or for a foreign country, except arrivals from Canada intending to return there by water
- (5) Those announcing an intention to depart across the other land boundary.

¹ A head tax was required to be paid by persons entering the U.S. who were not citizens of the U.S., the Dominion of Canada, Newfoundland, the Republic of Cuba, or the Republic of Mexico.

These classes were revised in 1945 so that the statistics of arriving aliens at land border ports of entry for 1945-52 included arriving aliens who came into the United States for 30 days or more, and returning alien residents who had been out of the country more than 6 months. Arriving aliens who came into the United States for 29 days or less were not counted except for those who were either certified by public health officials, held for a board of special inquiry, excluded and deported, or were individuals in transit who announced an intention to depart across another land boundary or by sea.

From 1953 to at least 1957, all arriving aliens at land border ports of entry were counted for statistical purposes except Canadian citizens and British subjects resident in Canada who were admitted for 6 months or less; Mexican citizens who were admitted for 72 hours or less; and returning U.S. residents who had been out of the country for more than 6 months. Beginning in February 1956, residents returning from stays of less than 6 months in Western Hemisphere countries also were not counted. Because of changed regulations in 1957, returning residents without reentry permits or visas who had been abroad for 1 year or less were not counted.

Summary: Statistical arrivals were immigrants or nonimmigrants who were subject to the head tax and generally not from the Western Hemisphere. By contrast, nonstatistical arrivals were immigrants or nonimmigrants who usually were natives of the Western Hemisphere and not subject to the head tax. Although arrival of the latter was not included in immigration statistics, a record of that arrival may still have been made. It cannot be said with certainty that the definitions of statistical and nonstatistical arrivals were applied uniformly at any particular port on the Canadian or Mexican borders during the period covered by this microfilm publication.

DEFINITIONS OF IMMIGRANTS (PERMANENT ARRIVALS) AND NONIMMIGRANTS (TEMPORARY ARRIVALS)

Since 1906, arriving aliens have been divided into two classes: (1) immigrants, or those who intended to settle in the U.S.; and (2) nonimmigrants, who were admitted aliens who declared an intention not to settle in the U.S., and all aliens returning to resume domiciles formerly acquired in the U.S. Since 1924, aliens arriving to settle in the U.S. have been further classified as quota or nonquota immigrants. Quota immigrants were those admitted under quotas established for countries in Europe, Asia, Africa, the Pacific Basin and the colonies, dependencies, and protectorates belonging to those nations. Nonquota immigrants were spouses and unmarried children of U.S. citizens; natives from the independent countries of the Western Hemisphere, their spouses, and unmarried children under 18 years of age; and members of the clergy who entered with their families to carry on their profession. From 1933 to 1952, professors and their spouses and children were also classified as nonquota immigrants. Nonimmigrants were alien residents of the U.S. returning from a temporary visit abroad, or nonresident aliens admitted to the U.S. for a temporary period, such as tourists, students, foreign government officials, those engaged in business, people representing international organizations, the spouses and unmarried children of all these individuals, and agricultural laborers from the West Indies.

RECORDS DESCRIPTION

These records are arranged alphabetically in three series described below. They include statistical, nonstatistical, permanent, and temporary arrivals from June 3, 1928, to October 31, 1956. Aliens are included in Series 1 and 2; U.S. citizens are included in Series 1, 2, and 3. Researchers should search all three series to locate an individual since the person may not be found in the expected record series. There may have been misfiling because Series 1 and 2 each include both temporarily admitted aliens and permanently admitted aliens. Aliens include both Canadians and persons from various European countries.

All rolls begin with "retakes" sections (records refilmed to ensure legibility). The INS target (informational) page that begins each roll indicates the date span is June 3, 1928-November 1, 1956, so it is possible some admissions for November 1, 1956, are included.

Although the records are arranged alphabetically, there is occasional minor disarrangement.

SERIES 1: "TEMPORARY ADMISSION" MANIFESTS

This series contains over 13,800 manifests, primarily of aliens admitted temporarily to the United States. It also includes some returning U.S. citizens (such as Basil V. Sorenson and family of Buffalo, NY) and some aliens intending to permanently reside in the United States. Information was primarily recorded on INS Forms 548, I-94, I-189, and I-448 (all described below under "Forms Used").

For most aliens, the intended length of stay was a month or less. However, a small but not insignificant portion of the manifests are for aliens who intended permanent U.S. residence as indicated by the words "resume residence" or "permanently reside" for the intended length of stay. Some of these persons, however, may have stayed in the U.S. only temporarily, such as Frank G. Anderson, whose card has a notation that he withdrew his application for permanent residence and returned to Canada.

This series also includes aliens who completed a Form I-189, Application for Resident Alien's Border Crossing Identification Card in the 1940s and 1950s. Aliens permanently residing in the United States obtained this card before leaving and then presented it to U.S. immigration inspectors upon return. The I-189s included here were mostly issued to resident aliens living elsewhere in the U.S. who reentered the U.S. at Babb, Montana, after a journey through Canada.

SERIES 2: "PERMANENT ADMISSION" MANIFESTS

This series contains over 1,400 manifests of aliens admitted permanently to the United States. Some U.S. citizens are also included. Information was primarily recorded on INS Forms 548 and I-448 (described below under "Forms Used"). However, a small but not insignificant portion of the manifests are for aliens who indicated a temporary visit as their intended length of stay.

Many aliens included in this series were accompanied by a U.S. citizen relative, such as spouse, parent, or grandparent, whose manifest is sometimes also included.

SERIES 3: RETURNING U.S. CITIZEN MANIFESTS

This series contains over 1,300 manifests of U.S. citizens returning either temporarily or permanently to the U.S. Information was recorded on INS Forms 548 and I-448 (described below under "Forms Used").

FORMS USED

The manifests consist of Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) forms. Both the front and reverse sides of each card-size form were used. The most common forms are described below.

Form 548 or Form I-448, Manifest or Report of Inspection, generally includes the person's name, age, sex, marital status, place of birth, physical description, occupation, citizenship ("nationality"), race, ability to read and write and in what language, place of last permanent residence, port and date of arrival, destination, purpose for entering the U.S., intention of becoming a U.S. citizen or of returning to country of previous residence, head tax status, and previous citizenships. It also includes the name and address of the friend or relative whom the alien intended to join, persons accompanying the alien, and the name and address of the alien's nearest relative or friend in the country from which he or she came. If the alien had ever been in the U.S. in the past, the dates and places of such residence or visitation are indicated. Additional information may be recorded if the alien appealed a decision deporting or barring him or her from entering the U.S. Form 548 or I-448 is generally a card manifest. However, during some periods at some ports, the INS used an entire sheet of paper for the Form 548 manifest. Both sizes of manifests generally included the same information. The reverse side of the card manifest Form 548, if filmed, sometimes includes the person's photograph.

Form I-94, I-94a, I-94E (etc.), Record of Alien Admitted for Temporary Stay, includes the person's name, home address, date and place of birth, sex, marital status, occupation, citizenship ("nationality"), race, visible distinctive marks, color of hair and eyes, height, name and address of nearest relative at home, date and place of admission to the U.S., date of previous entry into the U.S., name and address of the friend or relative whom the alien intended to join, purpose and length of intended stay in the U.S., identification of the alien's travel documents, and whether the alien was accompanied by an alien child under age 14.

Form I-189, Application for Resident Alien's Border Crossing Identification Card, includes the alien's name, date and place of birth, sex, marital status, occupation, ability to read and write, place of residence, citizenship ("nationality"), physical description, and the date, place, and means of lawful entry into the U.S. for permanent residence. It also includes the alien's signature and photograph and/or fingerprint of the right index finger. The border crossing identification card number and its date and place of issuance are also included.

GENERAL REMARKS

The records were filmed by the INS in November 1956 and transferred to the National Archives on microfilm. Although some of this film may be difficult to read, it is impossible to correct the situation since the INS destroyed the original records.
